UEFA Says NO to Racism Faces in Advertising

Presented by Jakob Wennerqvist

The Campaign

Context:

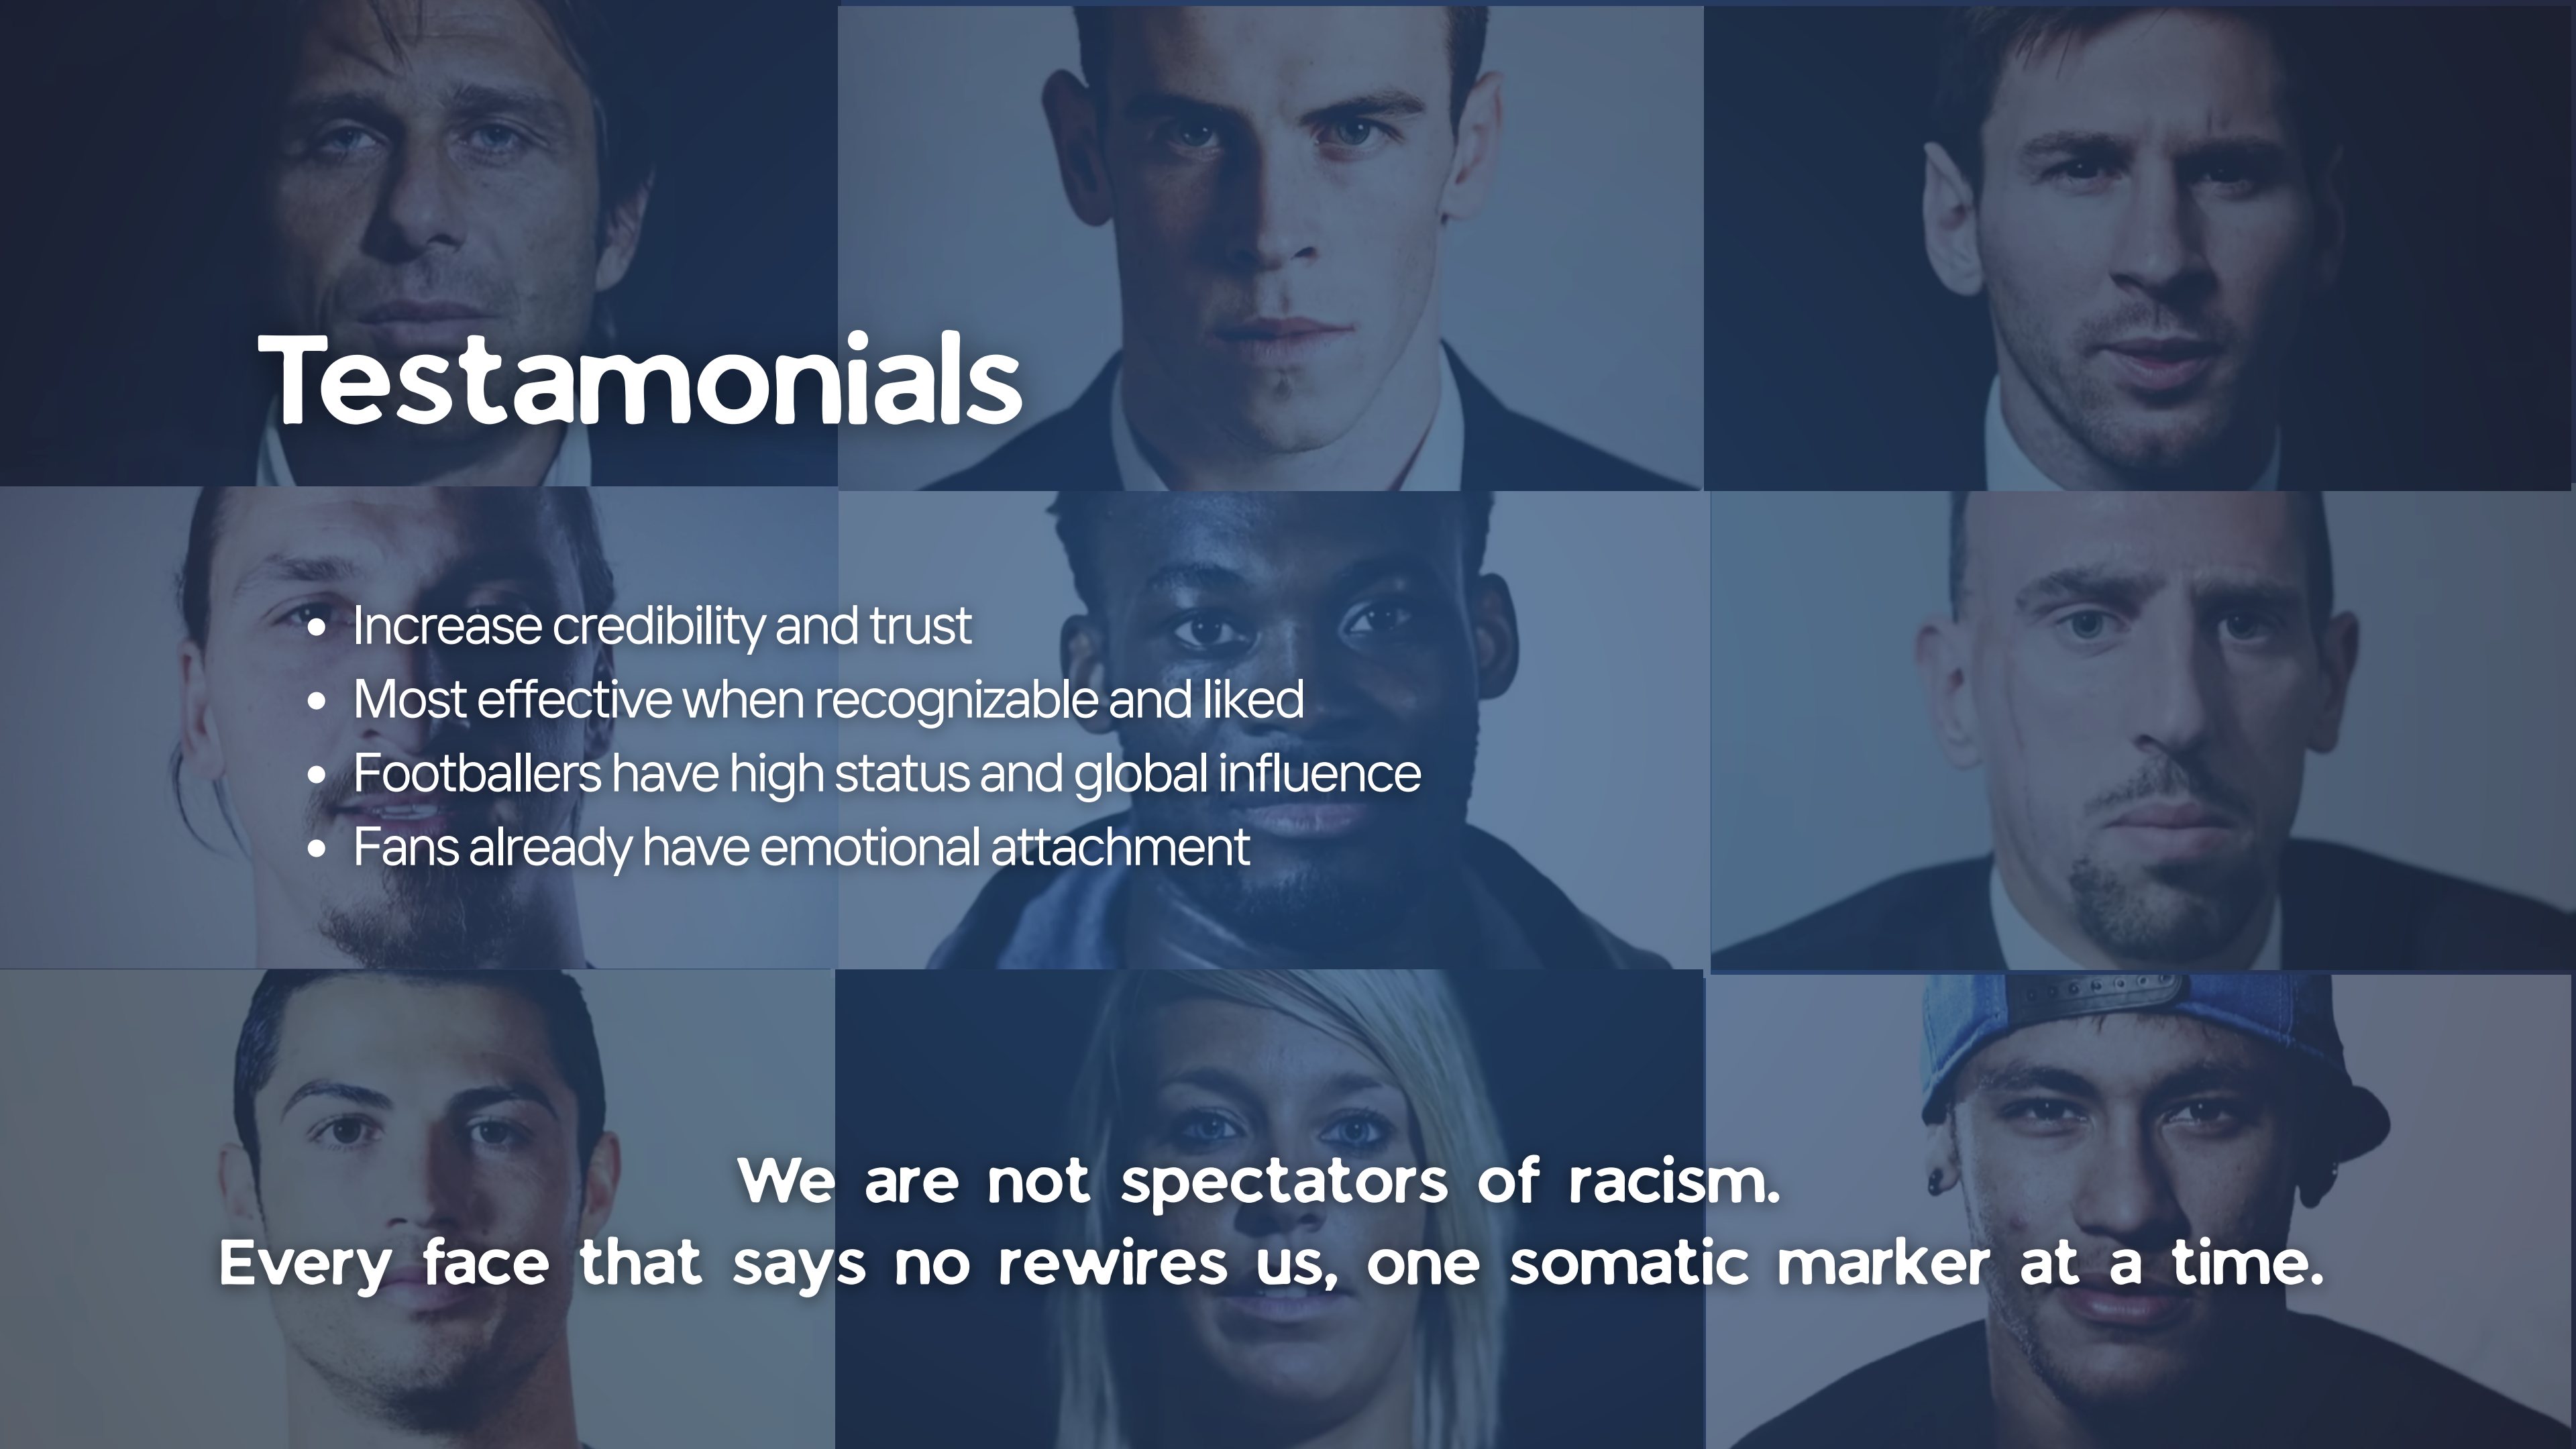

- Launched in 2013 by Union of European Football Associations & social responsibility partner, the FARE network
- Annual campaign during Football People weeks

Goal:

- "to tackle discrimination and celebrate diversity."
- Impose stricter sanctions on racist behavior to eliminate any discrimination from football

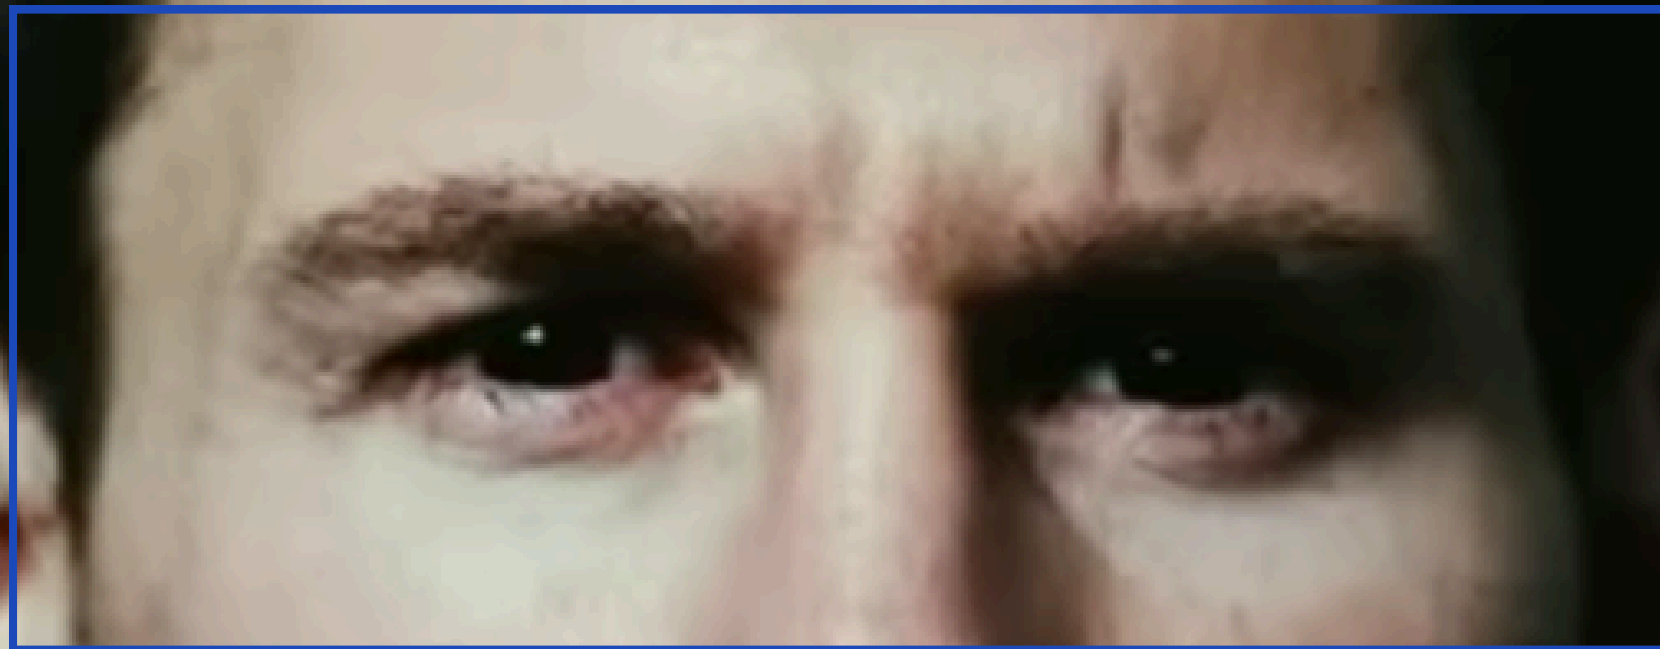

"We need to educate young people, give them the possibility to understand that diversity is positive, and to feel and experience this, so they can then join forces in promoting a more diverse world."

Testimonials

- Increase credibility and trust
- Most effective when recognizable and liked
- Footballers have high status and global influence
- Fans already have emotional attachment

We are not spectators of racism.
Every face that says no rewires us, one somatic marker at a time.

Facial Expressions and Emotions

No strong emotions = increased authenticity

- There is no product, the face is the message
- Looking straight at the viewer – the most attention grabbing gaze
- Personal
- Inward reflection
- Confrontational but in a good way
